Wind farm technology continues to change. Losses are complex. Repairs are specialized. Your wind farm must stay up and running. To learn more about the advantages of insuring your wind energy operations with Travelers Inland, please contact your independent agent or your local Travelers Inland Account Executive.

We go to great lengths to make sure we meet our customers face to face and understand their issues. Our WindPak coverage form has responded to you with straightforward language and specialized business interruption coverages.

Our knowledgeable Risk Control and Claim professionals will make a difference in helping you prevent or control losses. Claim service teams understand the needs of the wind farm industry. We have engineers and claim experts assigned as point people who can get to you quickly because we have locations near you. We can also link to industry experts who will collaborate with our skilled adjusters to respond quickly to specialized repair issues.

Change is as constant as the wind. Work with a company that keeps up with your changing needs.

You need experts on your side.

- 1 It is crucial to have a coverage form that provides the protection you need in a language that is clear and to the point.
- 2 It is also vital that your insurance company fully understand all aspects of your business and provide customized consultative services to improve your operation's safety and minimize your exposure to loss.
- 3 It then only makes sense that your insurer specialize in your business. If there is a loss, we can help you get your business back up and running as soon as possible.

So why not place your insurance with a company that can do all three? Contact Jerry Minichiello to learn more:
