

Employment Practices Liability Insurance

TRAVELERS CLAIM SERVICES GUIDE

Employment practices liability insurance protects an employer against claims made by employees, former employees or potential employees. It covers discrimination (age, sex, race, disability, etc.), wrongful termination of employment, sexual harassment and other employment-related allegations. It protects your company, including its employees and directors and officers.

How do I report a claim?

Immediately notify your agent or broker when a claim is made against you or you wish to make a claim. You must also comply with any other specific claim reporting instructions set forth in your policy.

To notify Travelers directly, please contact:

Fax: 888.460.6622
Email: BSIclaims@travelers.com

Please refer to your policy for your duties in the event of a claim.

What is a claim?

If you think it is a claim, it probably is.

A claim can come in several different forms. It can be a letter demanding damages, an administrative charge of discrimination (from either the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or a state agency), or a lawsuit. Generally, if you have received something in writing from an employee, past employee or potential employee claiming that your company and/or employee(s) acted unlawfully and that the claimant has been damaged as a result, such allegations may constitute a claim.

What happens after I report a claim?

The life cycle of a claim varies depending on the nature of the claim. However, the claim process generally includes the following steps:

1. Acknowledgment

A letter will be sent to you and your agent to acknowledge Travelers' receipt of the claim notice. This acknowledges receipt of the matter and provides you with a claim number and the name and contact information of the claim professional assigned to the matter.

2. Information gathering and investigation

The claim professional will begin the investigation into the matter. During this process, you may receive communications requesting additional information in order to assist in the investigation of the claim.

3. Coverage determination

Travelers will send you a letter that outlines the coverage available under the policy. This letter sets forth the way the claim will be handled. This letter should be viewed as an informative document, setting forth the terms, conditions and exclusions contained within the policy that may apply to your claim. It may also explain why a matter does or does not fall within the coverage provided.

4. Resolution

The claim professional will work directly with you and the attorney representing your company to achieve a timely and efficient resolution of the claim.

When should I report a claim?

You should report a claim as soon as possible. This means that as soon as you become aware of a claim, you should report the matter. When in doubt, report it and let Travelers make the determination as to whether the matter is or is not a claim. The sooner Travelers is notified, the sooner we can become involved in the process and offer assistance to you. A delay in reporting may cause all or part of a claim to fall outside of the coverage provided.

Do I need to hire an attorney?

In most instances, a company facing an employment claim will need an attorney to handle the matter. Depending on your policy, Travelers may appoint an attorney for you, or, you may have the right to choose your own attorney, subject to Travelers' consent.

What is a "Duty to Defend" policy?

With a "Duty to Defend" policy, Travelers will appoint an attorney for you. Travelers has established relationships with experienced law firms and has negotiated favorable rate agreements to provide services to Travelers' insureds. If your policy does not contain a "Duty to Defend" provision, you have the right to select an attorney of your choosing, subject to Travelers' consent.
