Temporary Total Benefits	STATE'S AVERAGE WEEKLY WAGE (SAWW) (ORS 656.211) The SAWW affects the computation of most workers' compensation benefits for all injuries occurring on or after July 1, 1973, including: temporary total disability, permanent partial disability, permanent total disability, and fatal benefits. Effective July 1, 2017, the SAWW used to compute workers' compensation benefits is $963.01. For workers injured Jan. 1, 2002, through June 30, 2012, who are entitled to TTD benefits on or after July 1, 2017, adjust benefits using the adjustment factors shown on the "Average Weekly Wage" chart, applicable to the date of injury, subject to the maximum statutory rate ($1,297.62). Workers employed in more than one job at the time of injury, who lose wages from one or more of the additional jobs, are eligible for supplemental temporary disability payments under ORS 656.210(2), subject to the maximum statutory rate ($1,297.62), and not less than $50 a week or 90 percent of their wage, whichever amount is less. Temporary disability benefits for workers injured on or after July 1, 2017, will be subject to the maximum of 133 percent of the 2016 SAWW ($1,280.80). Workers employed in more than one job at the time of injury, who lose wages from one or more of the additional jobs, are eligible for supplemental temporary disability payments under ORS 656.210(2), subject to the maximum rate of 133 percent of the SAWW. TTD rates are reviewed by the state every year and Bulletin #111 publishes the yearly increase. Oregon has a 3 calendar day waiting period that begins on the first medically authorized date of WC disability. The waiting period is paid retroactively if total (vs. TP) disability continues to be medically approved for 14 consecutive days after the first date of total disability. The worker is entitled for payment of the waiting period if hospitalized as an inpatient within the first 14 days of disability. There is no limitation on the duration of TT benefits.
Temporary Partial Benefits	TP benefits are limited by the same maximum weekly TT rate given above. There is no minimum rate applied to TP benefits. The worker is not eligible to recover disability benefits from the waiting period if they have been released to modified work within the first 14 days following the date approved WC disability began.

Permanent Partial Benefits	An injured worker's eligibility for a PP award is evaluated by the attending physician when a worker is deemed to be medically stationary. Beginning with dates of injury of 1/1/05, Oregon pays PP awards are determined by multiplying the impairment value identified by the physician times 100 times the workers average weekly wage at the time of the injury. PP awards in excess of $6,000 are payable at 4.35 times the weekly temporary total disability rate in effect at the time the PP determination is made. IW may request a lump sum payment via completion of a Lump Sum Application. This waives any rights to appeal the closing order. In addition to standard partial disability benefit based on physical impairment, an IW may be entitled to "work disability" if the worker is not released back to the job at injury. The "work disability" award is based on the IW's impairment "modified by age, education and adaptability to perform a given job." Together, an IW's "impairment" + "work disability" = PPD (Permanent Partial Disability)
Permanent Total Benefits	Monthly PT benefits are computed in relation to the State Average Weekly Wage in effect on the date of injury. Workers shall receive 66 2/3% of their weekly wage at the time of injury but not more than 100% of the State Average Weekly Wage. Refer to Oregon Workers Compensation Division Bulletin 111 for the SAWW information. The minimum amount of benefits payable to an injured worker is 90% of the workers weekly wage at the time of injury or $50 a week, whichever amount is less. The maximum amount of benefits payable to an injured worker is shown in the Bulletin 111 chart.

Vocational Rehabilitation	Vocation assistance in Oregon includes help with job placement and training. To qualify, the worker must have qualified for a PP award, could not return to the regular job at injury or to a job that pays at least 80% of the wage the worker was earning at the time of injury, and the injured worker must be authorized to work within the United States. Temporary total disability benefits are paid at the normal TT rate while the worker is in a vocational training program. A worker may not use a CDA (or ANY kind of settlement) to settle his/her future rights to medical benefits on an accepted claim.
