

ARE YOUR EMPLOYEES
DRIVING
DISTRACTED
ON THE JOB?

1 in 4

businesses say they have had an employee get in a distraction-related crash while driving for work.

8%

of people say they've spoken up to an employee or boss who was driving distracted.

87%

of companies say they expect employees to be sometimes or frequently reachable when they are not in the office.

Is your company culture encouraging safe driving practices?

A DISTRACTED DRIVING POLICY CAN HELP SET EXPECTATIONS, YET:

While 3 out of 4 companies say they have a distracted driving policy in place, enforcement is inconsistent.

74% of companies do not consider distracted driving to be of great concern.

Just 18% of policies require employees to set their phones to Do Not Disturb before driving.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

Speak up
54% of drivers say they'd probably stop driving while distracted if asked by a passenger.

Stop notifications
Only 12% of drivers set their phones to Do Not Disturb while driving.

Reinforce the message
44% of drivers type or text behind the wheel. Make safe driving part of your company culture.

LEARN MORE ABOUT the Travelers Risk Index and about techniques you can use to reduce distracted driving behaviors.

VISIT travelers.com/RiskIndex

