Chief Executive Officer/General Manager

North Carolina Joint Underwriting Association (NCJUA)

North Carolina Insurance Underwriting Association (NCIUA)

In 2012, Gina Schwitzgebel was named CEO at North Carolina Joint Underwriting Association (NCJUA) and North Carolina Insurance Underwriting Association (NCIUA). Together, the Associations insure $95 billion in property exposures for 375,000 policyholders. Previously she was Assistant Vice President with Builders Mutual, where she was responsible for establishing and managing all underwriting policies, practices, and procedures. During her tenure, Builders Mutual expanded operations from four to nine states and transformed from writing primarily homebuilder policies to writing risks for all areas of construction. Schwitzgebel began her insurance career working in her father's insurance agency and, after college, held managerial and officer positions at Great American and Ohio Casualty.

During the past three years, Schwitzgebel has made formal presentations at the White House (OMB on Community Resilience), PIPSO General Managers' Meeting, Southeastern Regulators Association Conference (SERA), and the Casualty Actuarial Society, Ratemaking, and Product Management Seminar. She also serves as a guest lecturer at several universities in North Carolina. Schwitzgebel has an MBA from the John E. Weems Graduate School of Meredith College, a certificate in Human Resource Management from Villanova University, and a BA from Emory University. She has the following designations: Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter (CPCU), Associate in Risk Management (ARM), Certified Insurance Counselor (CIC), Certified Risk Manager (CRM), Associate in Claims (AIC), and Associate in Marine Insurance Management (AMIM). In 2014, she was named "Company Professional of the Year" by the Independent Insurance Agents of North Carolina.
