
Marlene M. Ibsen

Chief Executive Officer & President, Travelers Foundation
Vice President, Community Relations
Travelers

Marlene M. Ibsen is Chief Executive Officer and President of the Travelers Foundation and Vice President of Community Relations for Travelers, a position she has held since November 2007. She manages the company's charitable giving and is responsible for community-related employee engagement and development activities. Ibsen has developed a strategic approach for the company's philanthropy, designed to meet community needs and align with business interests by helping to generate Academic & Career Success, Thriving Neighborhoods and Culturally Enriched Communities.

Prior to her role in Community Relations, Ibsen worked in a variety of communications management roles at Travelers, including media relations, internal communications and marketing communications. Before joining Travelers, she worked as a writer/producer and public relations consultant. In addition, she has experience working in communications and fundraising for nonprofit organizations.

Ibsen holds a bachelor's degree in radio-TV-film from Texas Christian University and a master's degree in communications management from Syracuse University.

Ibsen currently serves as chair of the board of directors for the National College Access Network in Washington, D.C. In addition, she is a director of College Possible National in Saint Paul, Minnesota; Hartford Promise in Connecticut; and the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving in Connecticut. She is also a member of the Boston College Center for Corporate Citizenship's Executive Forum and serves on the KaBOOM! Leadership Council.
